Excerpt: .each of its members becoming moralized thereby. Upon this principle much of the work of the settlement is based. There naturally follows, on the part of the group thus formed, cooperation with outside individuals and with other organizations. To quote again from Professor Taylor, the settlement Seeks to unify and help all other organizations and people in, the neighborhood that will make for righteousness and brother----hood. It is not a charity, but aids in the organization and mutual helpfulness of all existing charities. It is not an exclusive social circle, but aspires to be the centre of the best social life and interests of the people. It is not a school, but proposes to be the source and agency for educational effort and general culture. It is non-political, yet has begun to be a rallying point and moral force for civic patriotism. The settlement...

Reviews

Extensive information for book fans. It is written in basic words and never hard to understand. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
