Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Panoramic Drawing: One-Point and Cylindrical Perspective General Value of Panoramic Drawing Conventional Signs. A panoramic drawing is a picture of a given piece of territory as it would appear to an observer in a balloon. The drawing is not made from the balloon, however, but from a Sat map, and for this reason it can be substituted when a photograph could not be taken. There are two kinds of panoramic drawings, the vertical plane or one-point perspective, and the cylindrical plane or many-point perspective. The foundation of the one-point is easier to construct, yet the drawing of the objects requires more judgment; the finished drawing of the cylindrical is the more accurate of the two. We shall confine ourselves to the development of the one-point theory and later to the cylindrical theory. The average observer going up in the balloon for the first time in a given sector requires anywhere from 20 to 30 hours to feel himself thoroughly at home in his new territory. After having studied a panoramic drawing on the ground, it would be possible for the observer to learn enough of his territory after one or two flights in the balloon to send down intelligent observations. In making panoramic drawings it is necessary to work from a flat map, and this constant association with maps is of great value to an observer. Part of the planning of the Battle of the Aisne by the French consisted in making panoramic drawings, assuming that the desired territory had been won, and that the balloon was then overlooking new territory.
