Excerpt: . . . or a little more than 60 of the teachers in the public schools of Ohio. Full report will be published next month. Urging as an absolute necessity, the formation of a Parent-Teachers Club at London, Supt. Rice told club women of the city that it was the only solution to the endless difficulties confronting the schools of today. He further declared that the low estimation in which teachers are held in community circles was an important reason for teachers entering into other lines of work. The aim of reading is to facilitate grasp of thought, not to obtain polished expression, declared Dr. Charles H. Judd of Chicago University at the Youngstown Teachers Institute. Proving the increasing interest in education, the speaker quoted figures showing that while in 1840 the total number of days of schooling for the average person was 208, in 1916 when the last survey was taken, the number was 1192. BOOK REVIEWS The Junior High School by L. V. Koos aims to show that while the function of public schools is dominantly educative, there are other functions which must be performed by such democratic institutions. Problems peculiar to the Junior High School are comprehensively considered. Harcourt, Brace and Howe, New York, publishers. . Elementary Machine Shop Practice, by T. J. Palmateer, instructor in Machine Shop Practice, Leland Stanford Junior University, contains problems which are practical and can be worked out in the shop without difficulty. Its principal object is...
